WELL IT'S $4. BUT NEVER MIND. ALFALFA BILL SPEAKS UP. MEETING IN ARCTIC LAND. MORE FOR LESS MONEY.

By Arthur Brisbane. (Copyright 1930 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.) Big steel did not reduce its dividend to $5. It reduced it to $4 from $7. The old dividend could have been paid since the company has hundreds of millions of resources, but the reduction is wise. Don't spread sail in a gale, don't scatter your money among stockholders in a depression.

The company earned, during the June three months period, only a few cents on the preferred stock. Therefore $4 on the common is quite generous.

Those that see only as far as the ends of their noses will probably get rid of their steel stock. Those able to see two or three years ahead, will gather it in as others unload. This is not advice to buy steel, or anything else. The only advice given here is "don't gamble."

Governor Murray of Oklahoma, proud to be called "Alfalfa Bill", intends to stop squandering the oil treasures of his state at ridiculous prices. He tells the big oil companies if they don't increase their prices on one dollar a barrel by next Saturday night, he will sign an executive order shutting down all but "stripper wells" in Oklahoma.

Federal courts may "drag the constitution" into the question, proving that the governor can't carry out his plan. But there is common sense in what the governor says, and in his statement that oil should sell for more than $1 a barrel.

The dirigible "Graf Zeppelin", sailing toward the North Pole with scientists and adventurous spirits aboard, told the Zeppelin works yesterday by radio, that Dr. Eckener had landed his great ship off Hooker island, Franz Josef land, remaining 13 minutes on the water, and transferring mail to the Russian ice breaker Malgvin.

They had advanced to meet in that far away place near the North Pole and did meet there. That is a good enough miracle for anybody.

Some things are encouraging, in our depression. The public buys now, for about 40 billion dollars the same quantity and quality of coffee that cost us formerly 200 million dollars. That is what makes Brazil sad.

America buys now for 50 million dollars as much and as good rubber as we used to buy for 300 million dollars. That saddens the British who have a monopoly on rubber. But it is cheerful for you who buy tires.

An Akron tire company, in a well written advertisement, reminds you that you can buy a 30 by 3 1-2 balloon tire now for $8.55. An old fashioned cord tire of that size in 1918 cost $41.65. And the tire of today gives you three times the mileage of a 1918 tire. That you get for your money, in real use, about 15 times what you used to get.

In addition, you buy gas and oil so cheap that to own an automobile is almost more economical than staying in the house.

So get your automobile if you haven't got one. They also are cheaper and much better than ever.

CLEAR WEATHER AIDS FLIERS IN EUROPEAN TRIPS

Two Planes Winging Way Across Atlantic To Turkey, Moscow

SHIPS ARE SIGHTED AT NEWFOUNDLAND

Each Carries 2 Aviators Seeking New Honors In Oceanic Journeys

BULLETIN (By Associated Press) LONDON, July 29.—More than thirty hours after America's two trans-Atlantic planes had taken off from New York, no authentic news of their progress had been received in Europe.

In Ireland, where a close watch was being kept for them, the Press Association reported that a red monoplane which flew over Dublin was stated to be a private machine.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Two Powerful monoplanes, each carrying two more candidates for transatlantic honors, were presumably flying in the clear and calm ocean airway towards Europe today.

Both Planes Sighted The two planes, the blue and yellow "Cape Cod", piloted by Russell Boardman and John Polando, and the red and orange Bellanca, piloted by Hugh Herndon, Jr. and Clyde Pangborn, were believed to have been the ones sighted within forty minutes of each other yesterday high over southeastern Newfoundland.

The "Cape Cod" left Floyd Bennett airport at 5 a. m. Salem time, and the Herndon-Pangborn craft 18 minutes later.

In Newfoundland, one plane was sighted over Cape Race at 3 p. m. Salem time. Another plane was sighted at Ramea at 3:36 and over Bay L'Argent a few minutes later. At 3:30 p. m. one plane headed out to sea from Bay Roberts, observers said.

Clear Weather Reported Weather reports from Newfoundland indicated the planes would encounter clear weather, a medium wind and a full moon.

Both planes were undistinguished because of the speed and great height at which they were flying. It appeared that both were following identical courses, but one was forty miles behind the other.

The right front wheel of the car passed over his body, the boy sustaining bruises about the back and head. He will recover, hospital attaches said today.

HANSEN TO TELL OF GOVERNMENT BY GANG HEADS

On Chautauqua Program Tonight; First Play Wins Plaudits

The popularity of plays was evidenced last night at the big chautauqua tent on Columbia School grounds as a large audience sat in rapt attention to enjoy "Broken Dishes", the first of three fine high-grade plays on this year's chautauqua menu.

Acted by a company worthy of any professional stage, the piece was presented in a manner that left nothing to be desired, while the bright lines and humorous situations kept the large audience in almost constant laughter.

Stars Here Before Forrest Lewis, Katherine Costin and Eugene Shakespeare, who appeared in last night's cast, are well-known to chautauqua audiences, having appeared in this city before.

Mr. Shakespeare, portraying the henpecked Cyrus Bumstead, a diminutive and none too upstanding gentleman, was the hit of the evening.

Last night's play was from the pen of Martin Flavin. It concerned an evening in the life of a Mr. and Mrs. Bumstead, their daughter Elaine, and Elaine's sweetheart, Bill Clark. Mr. Bumstead was a quiet and harmless little soul, whose dominating wife kept him in complete suppression until late in the second act where he asserted himself and gave his daughter permission to marry Bill Clark—a marriage which his wife had strenuously objected to.

Hansen Here Tonight

Every day, it is announced, will be a big day at the Redpath tent. Beginning with the Ball-Brown company which furnished a delightful novelty entertainment this afternoon to the Philharmonic ensemble on the final day, the program will team with fine lectures, worth-while drama and musical attractions with artists of outstanding accomplishment.

Tonight C. Ray Hansen, former assistant prosecutor and clean-up investigator of Chicago will deliver his noted address on "Government By Gangland." This will be a highly interesting and instructive story of Mr. Hansen's experiences while investigating gang life in Chicago.

Former Congressman Is Speaker At County Meetings

DECLARES PRIMARY SYSTEM A FAILURE

"Enforce Prohibition — If Not, Repeal It," His Policy

Calling upon voters and candidates for a greater sense of political responsibility, recommending a definite policy either of repeal or enforcement of the Volstead act and asserting that present economic conditions are a challenge to America's political system, former Congressman James T. Begg of Cleveland appealed to electors to take an active interest in their government and to see that their public officials lived their promises and their platforms, in a series of three addresses in Columbiana county Tuesday afternoon and night.

He spoke to approximately 100 women at Arrowhead inn, north of Lisbon, at noon, under auspices of the county Republican women's organization; he was the guest of the Salem Rotary club at the Quaker teahouse at 6 p. m., and he addressed a few hundred persons last night at Centennial park at a meeting arranged by the Republican women of Salem.

Mrs. Cronin Presides Mrs. Ella Marshall Cronin, of East Liverpool, woman member of the Republican state central committee, and chairman of the women's county organization, presided at the meeting at Arrowhead inn. Atty. Chas. G. McCorkhill introduced Begg there.

Mrs. Cronin also spoke at Centennial park last night, prior to Begg's talk, outlining women's part in politics.

The program for the Centennial park meeting was arranged by Mrs. Ralph Sturgeon, Republican women's chairman here, and her aids, while E. M. Peters, chairman of the Republican Men's club of Salem, presided. A musical program was provided by the high school boys' brass quartet. Begg was presented by R. W. Hawley.

Out and out enforcement of prohibition is lacking, Begg declared, in administrative forces, from the top to the bottom.

HOOVER FIGHTS TO KEEP WAGES AT HIGH SCALE

President Pushed to Wall By Efforts; Adjustments Imminent

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Belief is growing among many persons in the administration that President Hoover is being slowly crowded to the wall in his effort to maintain wages. This crowding, it is held, arises from a growing feeling in many industries that wage or salary "adjustments," and dividend reductions, may be unavoidable with decreased business in some lines.

Result of the race between the effort to preserve consumer buying power and the accumulating deficits and vanishing savings of a number of industries striking at payrolls, will depend on duration of the depression. Officials have practically quit guessing about that.

President Hoover is continuing his fight. There was firm denial in a White House statement yesterday that the president is surrendering. But officials almost up to the president's door, talking privately, say that many congressmen will be unable to hold out against wage cuts much longer. Some already have ceased to hold out.

But, it is emphasized, if some industries are forced to reduce payrolls or close their doors, others in a more fortunate position will have an obligation to the public welfare to maintain wages wherever possible.

Steel Situation Has Effect The United States Steel corporation's reduction of its dividend from $7 to $4 and its announcement that salaries of officers and other salaried employees were to be "adjusted" bring some elements in the situation out into the open.

U. S. Steel is the nation's industrial pace maker which makes its action important to psychological reasons.

Officials were hesitant to discuss the action. Secretary of Labor William N. Doak said it was too early to say that only large salaries were to be cut, no serious harm could come but that if wholesale wage slashes were contemplated it was something else again.

SHOOTING OF FIVE CHILDREN TURNS TO MURDER HUNT

Tots Sprayed with Shotgun Slugs In Beer Racket Outburst

5-YEAR-OLD BOY DIES OF WOUNDS

Intended Victim Sprawls On Sidewalk as Weapons Belch Fire

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 29.—The shooting of five innocent children in a Harlem beer feud last yesterday, turned into a murder hunt today as five-year-old Michael Vengali, one of the victims, died.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, notified of the child's death at 3 a. m. today, sent a dozen detective squads into action with orders to bring every beer racketeer in the city for questioning.

One More May Die

Four other children are still undergoing hospital treatment for bullet wounds. One more may die. The victims, ranging in ages from 3 to 14 years, were playing on the heat-blistered sidewalks of East 107th st., when an unidentified touring car rolled to the curb and sprayed the Helmar social club, a pool room, with an assortment of shotgun and revolver slugs.

The intended victim of the gunmen, described by police as a beer racketeer who had "muscle" in on new territory, escaped. He sprawled on the sidewalk at the first blast of gun fire, and remained there while windows tinkled to the street and women and children screamed and scurried for safety.

A moment later as the automobile departed, five children were lying on the sidewalk, hurt and bleeding. The first two policemen reaching the scene were unable to reach the injured as the thousands of residents cluttered the streets, screaming and cursing.

The Wounded

The wounded were the dead boy's brother, Salvatore, seven, Michael Bevilacqua, three, Samuel Devino, 5, and Florence D'Amelio, 14.

Police attributed the shooting to the three-cornered beer war of Dutch Schultz, Vincent Coll and Joe Rao, the more prominent of New York's beer men.

Rao's car, police said, had been seen in the neighborhood where the shooting took place.

DETROIT MOTHER ENDS SON'S LIFE

Boy Asphyxiated After Father Is Unable To Find Work Here

Lacking funds to provide food for herself and child, Mrs. Charles Schmidt, Detroit, Mich., Tuesday asphyxiated her five-year-old son, Alfred, and then attempted to end her own life as her husband sought work in Salem.

Hunger and despondency over lack of funds is said by Detroit police to have prompted the act. The father, Charles Schmidt, had been out of work 13 months and recently was visiting Ohio cities in an attempt to locate a job.

Schmidt came to Salem Monday for work, failed to obtain employment and telegraphed his wife, telling her that he had been unsuccessful.

She took Alfred, 5, with her into the kitchen, barred doors and windows and opened the jets of the gas stove.

The broken-hearted father arrived today in Detroit, still jobless. He has no money to bury his son.

THE ACCOUNTING

"Take an interest in your government. Hold to a rigid accounting every candidate you elect to municipal, county, state or federal office."

Thus former Congressman James T. Begg advised his hearers in an address Tuesday night at Centennial park under auspices of the men's and the women's Republican organizations of Salem.

Mr. Begg expressed a number of important, worthwhile thoughts. This was one of them and perhaps it comes as near as any of them to suggesting a solution to problems of politics, or why some office holders, elected on a particular platform or because of certain promises, design to forget them promptly after they get the job.

Election must take their word for it prior to the election, although they always have one qualification to which to refer—character.

After the election, it is up to the office holder to make good. And if he doesn't, voters can express themselves emphatically and without equivocation at the polls the next time.

All this, however, is contingent upon men and women going to the polls and voting.

No amount of theorizing or speculation concerning the ills of politics can take the place of votes in the ballot box and until every person realizes this, any disagreeable situation that may exist will remain unchanged.

TOO MANY CROOKS

Due to a certain centralization of responsibility in representative government, President Hoover's recent sharp demand that federal expenses be cut down is received generally with a "that doesn't mean me" attitude.

The proposition that the era of lavish spending, by authorization of congress, should end temporarily is unassailable. Still, it is difficult to feel confident that it can be ended. Literally, too many congressional cooks, each one with his own wants and principles (or lack of them) threaten to spoil the proposed federal economy broth.

Estimates are being prepared now for the executive budget of the next fiscal year. Mr. Hoover's demand for economy was caused, it is believed, by requests for larger appropriations than ever. Somehow or other expenditures must be kept within income before many more years; it will be difficult, even with departmental cooperation; without cooperation it will be impossible. It is as if father alone tried to cut down family expenditures, without cooperation from the family.

There are many unpleasant possibilities, all of them close enough to be taken seriously. If income lags behind expenditures persistently, an increase in taxation is indicated. This would be an unfortunate move indeed at this time. The alternative is another issue of government bonds, a makeshift method of finance that merely postpones the inevitable reckoning.

Congress, there is reason to believe, will return to Washington this year prepared to clamor for fatter appropriations. There is but one way to prevent this, and it is doubtful if the people ever would choose it. But, if each congressman and senator were to return to Washington with the assurance of representative voters in his district that they wanted him to support an economy program it could be done.

"Write to your congressman" has come to be rapid advice, but it is the only remedy that applies in this case.

"Good health," says Mr. Rockefeller, "makes any one prosperous." Isn't he getting the cart before the horse, even with respect to his own case?—Boston Transcript.

What Others Say

BEHOLD, ANOTHER MIRACLE!

Wonders do not cease to engage the attention and astonishment of man—for a day, at least.

Men have dreamed of a time when they might hear a rose bloom, when they might actually behold a melody—music visible!

It seems that we are approaching nearer to what hitherto have been regarded as profound mysteries of the universe, or things beyond the possibility of discovery by the finite mind.

Just now we are told that both sound and its echo may be visible on the camera screen!

This new wonder in the realm of light and vibration is no dream of scientist or sage, but a veritable fact, which received demonstration a few nights ago in New York City, where sound and its echo were made visible by a camera taking 40,000 pictures a second.

The picture was part of an exhibition staged at the New York Museum of Science and Industry. On the screen the sound was a moving shadow, ring shaped, widening rapidly, much after the manner of a pebble cast into the water—giving actually the picture of an echo. The phases of the echo were presented in queer patterns—a fretwork of moving angles and squares; circular or egg-shaped; some like cloud-lets in the sky.

We say a thing is impossible, the next morning we read of its accomplishment in our morning papers and complacently accept miracle as fact. Verily, said the Wise Man, there is nothing new under the sun—it is merely undiscovered, then—truth revealed.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, July 30
The sidereal influence of strongest influence on this day point to a sudden change, journey or removal, albeit not of the deepest significance.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have a year of minor change, journey or removal, leading toward the direction of stabilized fortune and increased possessions. Profitable transaction may be manipulated by tact, diplomacy, subtle understandings or conspiracy. But a proclivity to rash, impulsive and turbulent acts and speech should be subdued, lest it defeat good prospects. A child born on this day should be clever in a shrewd or subtle way, original, independent, industrious and faithful, but disposed to rash, impetuous and tumultuous behavior.

PARIS, July 29.—The Parisian department stores, or grands magasins, are a glitter of mirrors and confusion of bird-like chirpings that bewilder us all. Our sedate emporiums are mausoleums in comparison. Here they bear such grandiose names as The Ladies' Paradise, Spring, The Garden of Loveliness, and Pygmalion.

It seems incredible that such opera bouffe capers could be galvanized into commercial prosperity but they are. When one enters the portals luxuriantly bearded and frock coated attendants seem to fly from all directions, bowing, scraping and murmuring polite "Bon Jours."

No matter how trifling the purchase, the customer must undergo the grand promenade to the brace of cashiers where it is gravely recorded by hand in a series of ponderous ledgers. A sale that would require two minutes in New York with all the fumididdles here takes about a half hour.

The biggest stores divide profits mathematically between employees according to their responsibility and activity. Thus everyone receives not only a salary but a commission dependent upon ability. Prices are only a fraction above the wholesale cost and success is based upon a big turnover.

This morning I visited the great Bon Marche in the Latin Quarter. Its rise is typically American but the sort seldom achieved in France. Its proprietor, Aristide Boucicaut, was a poor clerk who starting seventeen years ago with a "hole-in-the-wall" now occupies a vast five-block area.

Ten of his employees have, according to Gallic standards, become millionaires. In the Bon Marche are thirty-two interpreters, speaking fluently such languages as Chinese, Japanese, Hindustani and even dialects of the South Seas. I shopped for gloves alongside a desert-tanned Bedouin. He was buying perfume, by the way.

My American interpreter was a native of Ottumwa, Iowa. He wore an Elks lapel button and had taken on a highly British "Very good, sir!" In a moment of confidence he told me he made 300 francs a week—$12. But added he and his French wife lived in a seven-room house with a garden for $62 a year, on a nine-year lease.

At an adjoining terrace table today I was interested in a coal black flapper and her hatless boy friend. Her features were distinctly negroid but her black hair was straight. Her companion was a fair blonde Englishman. She spoke French to the waiter but excellent English to her friend. My first conjecture was she was Egyptian or perhaps a Senegalese. Yet eavesdropping I heard her speak of an "ofan"—which, I believe, the Harlem term for a while man. Anyway, they moved off languidly toward Pont Neuf arm in arm. And I seemed the only one to gaze after them.

The pink marble palace of Anna Gould, jutting the fashionable Bois de Boulogne, and its sombre walled garden are always to me a crystallization of sadness. One tragedy has followed another during her French exile, emphasized a year ago by the suicide of her son by her former marriage to Count Boni de Castellane. Boni, once a boutonniere beaux of the boulevard, is now confined to a wheel chair—a wasted wraith of his former debonaire self. Yet Boni crowded many glamorous lives into his 63 years.

One may buy a pearl necklace at less than one-third of boom day prices. The pearl market whirled into a tail-spiral eight months ago when Rosenthal, the so-called pearl king, went into bankruptcy. Emergents, too, are 40 per cent off. But the diamond market stands firm. Despite the discovery of many new fields in South Africa, the great diamond syndicate is in firm control. When anyone finds a new field in Africa, the syndicate gives him the bum's rush.

Oh, yes, the big department store Galleries Lafayette has opened up its Salon Decore with fourteen attendants. Here the ladies may have their toe-nails glossed to a bright red, pink or green, as desired. The charge is 10 francs or 40 cents. The open work sandal and polished nail have become an almost necessary get-up for those leaving Paris for the various bathing resorts.

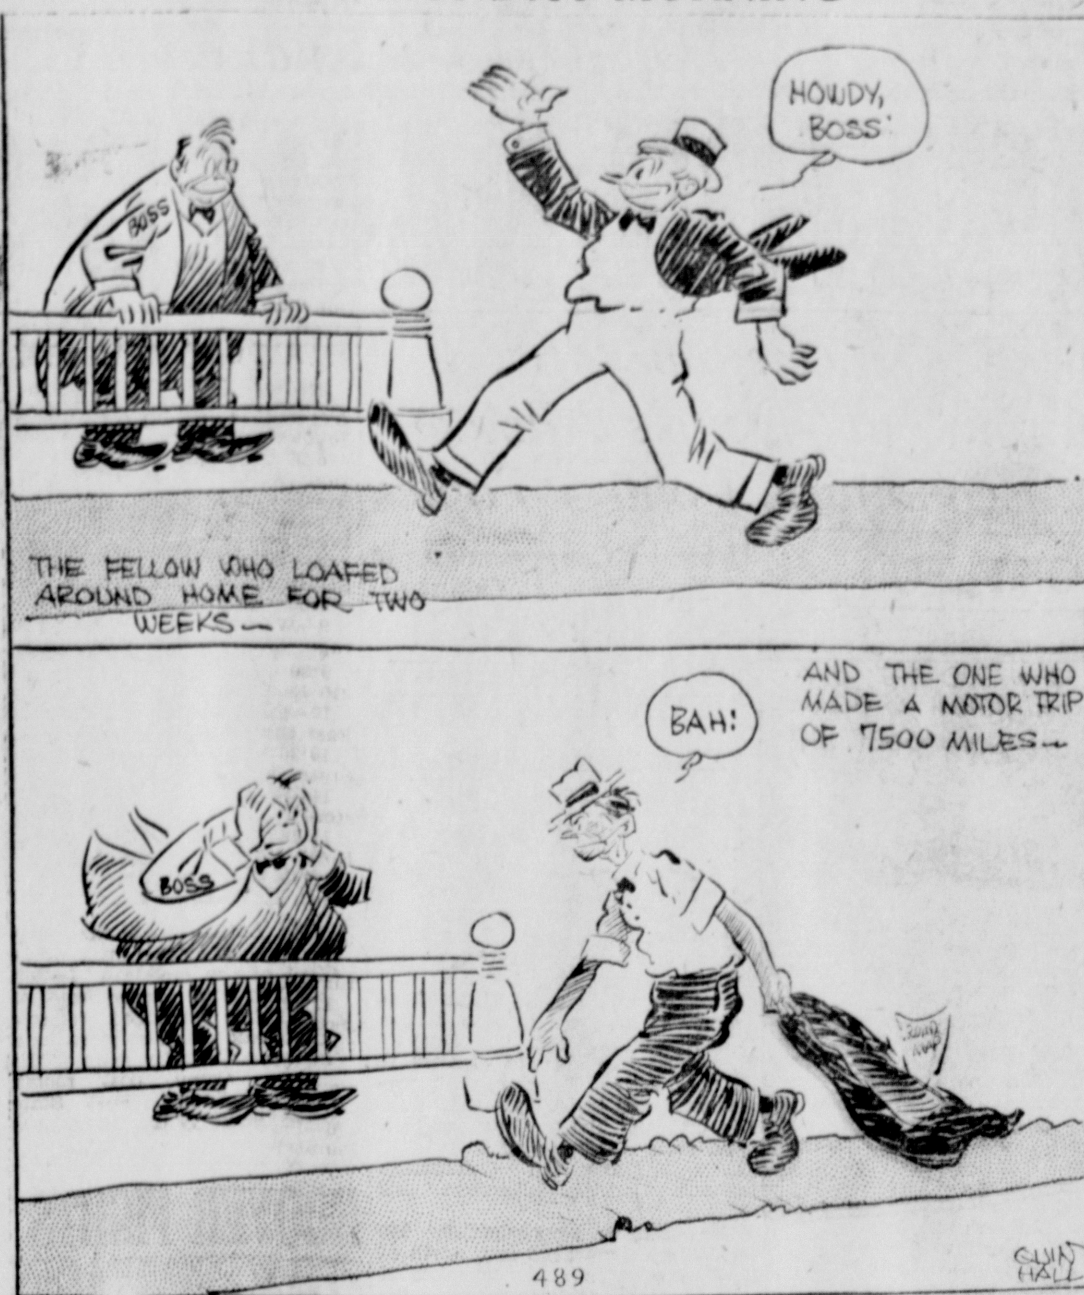

My day of shopping convinces me that France excels at least in shoe horns. It is the only article I cannot purchase as satisfactorily in the states. I can also report great headway in door pecking. France is likely to lead the world in that.

The door banger here sneaks up cat-like and touches off a machine gun rat-a-tat-tat that is a beaut. I am growing accustomed to the ordinary run—about fifty a day. But I am laying for one Tarzan of the Apes who brings my morning papers. He doesn't play the game. For the last two mornings I've certain he is using brass knuckles.

PARIS.—The oldest concierge here is Mme. Julie Gautier, and she has been at her post 70 years. Her mother was concierge in the same building before her, and when Mme. Gautier was courted, she told her fiance that if he wanted to marry her, he would have to live there, because she refused to leave. He died 22 years ago but his widow is still at her job.

OUR READERS

THE W. C. T. U.

Editor, The News—

The following editorial taken from the June 9th edition of the Toronto Globe is deserving of a place in your columns and we trust you will feel like giving it space.

"It is a truism that it is often difficult to see the forest for the trees. The average Canadian knows something of the activities of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The average Canadian knows, for instance, that the leaders of the W. C. T. U. are now in convention in Toronto—gathered from every corner of the earth. But it is doubtful that the average Canadian ever stops to appraise the work of the W. C. T. U. from the standpoint of larger human history.

Readers Great Act

The plain fact is that in the history of mankind few secular organizations have wrought as profound social changes as the W. C. T. U. has effected in the past half-century. For, while the fight against the evils of alcoholism has been waged all down through the centuries, and while many agencies have assisted in the reforms of the past fifty years, it is the W. C. T. U. that has been the driving force behind every notable advance achieved—not in one country, not on this continent alone, but in almost every land and among people of almost every race.

The history of every great movement bears the impress of some human character. The character of the W. C. T. U. still testifies to the inspired genius of Frances Willard, who crystallized women's age-old horror of alcoholism, and grief at the wreckage in alcohol's wake, into an essentially Christian crusade on world-wide lines.

Fight Liquor Traffic

Sometimes temperance leaders get discouraged at the ebb and flow of the battle against alcohol. Yet the irrefragable facts prove that in the fifty-two years since Frances Willard became president of the W. C. T. U. more progress has been made against the organized liquor traffic than in all the previous history of civilization. One of the greatest nations in the world has utterly abolished legalized liquor sale—a feat which would have been considered utterly impossible a generation ago.

Other nations, like our own, have stepped forward, only to slip part way back. But in almost every country on the globe the net per capita consumption of liquor has been drastically decreased by the twin agencies of personal education and political restriction.

In England, for instance, the average consumption of alcohol is almost exactly half the figure for the last year before the war. Education and restriction are doing the work—and in both spheres the W. C. T. U. is supplying leadership and massed strength.

No doubt Toronto was selected as the scene of the present world convention of the W. C. T. U. partly because of the controversy as to the merits of the liquor-selling system in vogue here. The W. C. T. U. leaders no doubt wished to see the system for themselves—wished to talk with the wives, mothers, sisters or children of the liquor store patrons.

Present Conditions Worse

The Globe would be the last to deny that conditions are decidedly better under the system of government liquor sale than they were in the old days of the open bar. But it is equally true that present conditions are much worse than they were during the days of national (as distinguished from partial or provincial) prohibition—when the manufacture and sale of liquor were completely forbidden. For instance: Many Ontario families are feeling the pinch of the present economic depression much more keenly than the similar period of 1920-1921. One reason is that one out of every three families is headed by a liquor-permit holder, who spends on the average on liquor $120 per year.

This sum would be sufficient to pay the average family milk bill for three years; the boot-and-shoe bill for four years; or the egg bill for five years.

Children Deprived of Milk
Some children in Toronto are today being deprived of sufficient milk (as the sales by the dairy companies show) because their families are not quite able to make ends meet. It would have been easier to make ends meet if the 424,000 legalized liquor purchasers in Ontario had not spent on liquor $550 each since the total prohibition law was repealed.

In other countries where the liquor laws are not as advanced as in Canada our present system might serve as a temporary W. C. T. U. goal. But in all countries those who face the cold facts can come to no other conclusion than that there are only two ways of coping with the evils of alcoholism: First, by increasing the number of abstainers, by evangelism, education and moral suasion. Second, by abolishing entirely the liquor traffic as speedily as public opinion will permit."

Beware of Tattoo Removers

At one time tattooing was very popular, particularly with sailors and soldiers. It is used in Europe as a means of furnishing to the police a method of identifying criminals.

The difficulty in removing tattoo marks made it of great value for this purpose. During the late war many soldiers amused themselves by getting tattooed. After the war many of these men became ashamed of the tattoo mark and desired to get rid of it.

Tattoo marks are removed with great difficulty. The tattooing is made by the injection of minute particles of lampblack, sometimes introduced with India ink. The introduction into the skin is made by a very fine needle and the mark can be removed only with great skill.

If you are one of these boys who, at some rash moment decided to be tattooed, I warn you against the use of any caustic chemicals or lotions. The removal of tattoo marks may be accomplished, but it should be done by a competent skin specialist.

Occasionally, due to their great desire to remove these tattoo marks, men have resorted to the use of acids. These chemicals burn the skin and frequently leave large scars. Extensive burning of the skin with severe complications have been reported.

Unauthorized organizations have attempted to attract our ex-service men. They have held out guarantees of safe removal. Many charlatans are engaged in this practice and I want my readers to be on guard against them.

If you are particularly anxious to have the tattoo removed, consult with your physician. He will refer you to a man trained in this particular work, a skin specialist who will protect you against results worse than the original trouble.

252 CHILDREN AT FAIRMOUNT

Enrollment Reaches High Peak, Superintendent's Figures Reveal

The greatest enrollment in the history of Fairmount children's home, Alliance, was reported today by R. D. George, superintendent, who announced that a total of 252 boys and girls now compose the institution's population.

Enrollment at the home reached an unprecedented peak during the past 10 days, normal population of the institution being reported by George to be 180. Activities of the home's inmates are being expanded to provide recreation for the increased number enrolled.

Placed In Families

As a partial relief to the situation, the home placement service performs a useful duty, but it is unable to keep pace with the new children arriving. During June, for example, 17 children were placed with reliable families, but 18 were admitted.

The home found a way to keep the youngsters happy and at the same time prepare them for the day when they will leave Fairmount to become self dependent.

There's the wayside stand at which vegetables grown on the farm are sold. The products are raised by the boys at Fairmount and sold by the girls. This is a duty delegated to the older ones, of course. Last year, the boys did all the work. This year, Mr. George decided to give the girls a chance. It gives them a chance to handle money and to meet the public. It gives the boys an opportunity to try their farming ability and most of the boys are from cities, too.

This year, the farm produced 6,000 quarts of strawberries. They were served every meal for a while, but 2,000 quarts remained unsold. All these were sold at the stand.

Keep Them Busy

The vegetables are grown as project work by the boys. In order to give every boy, at the age of responsibility, something to do, those who don't raise crops, engage in animal projects or manual training work. There is something for all the boys, and the girls too. There are 60,000 cabbage plants in growth this season.

With project work keeping the older children busy, the problem that remained was what to do with the tiny tots. Fred Owen of East Palestine, head of the refractories company there and a Fairmount trustee, has helped to solve this.

He donated the material to build a wading pool and his employees gave two days' time to building it. An Alliance contractor donated the use of a concrete mixer and the pool was completed and dedicated this week. The result is that every day and evening, the pool is crowded at every possible moment.

PARIS—Thousands of pigeons, martins and sparrows making their nests in the belfry of St. Jacques tower have spelled disaster to the frail Gothic ornamentation and necessitated its being roped off to prevent the gargoyles from falling into the garden below. An approximate cost of $1,400 will be required to restore the tower, and the work will cover a long period of time, due to its delicacy.

BUT I've noticed recently that more of my girl friends are smoking
CHESTERFIELD, and I asked why.

"One of them said that CHESTER-
FIELDS really are milder and taste better—that there is nothing strong or sharp or bitter about them.

"Another one spoke up and said that she too liked the taste of CHESTER-FIELDS; but that she was especially pleased with the package—so neat and attractive. Chesterfields—she added—are made right—properly filled—and burn evenly; and she thought possibly they were using a better cigarette paper.

"Still another one agreed with all we'd said. She'd been smoking CHESTER-always liked them; but she also liked the way they were advertised. The advertis-

whole truth—it wasn't always knocking somebody or something!"

neering corps, investigating the Nicaragua canal possibilities for the government, says the thing can be done and will cost $750,000,000. It would be cheap at the price, and with modern machinery, including electric steam shovels that take out 10 cubic yards and more at a bite, the thing probably could be done much more cheaply.

We have the necessary treaties with Nicaragua, and we ought to have that additional canal for added protection now, and in preparation for future shipping needs.

And we ought to charge foreign ships that use the new canal enough to pay for it, making the Panama Canal, if possible, free to our own shipping.

Mussolini shows this and other countries how to take care of their own people. Great steamship passenger lines of the world are in distress, hard up, passengers few, except in Italy. Italian lines are prosperous, crowded.

Any Italian, to get a visa for his passport, is told "buy a ticket on an Italian ship."

"No tickets for an Italian ship, no passport for an Italian," is Mussolini's motto.

And that is common sense. Why not build up your own country, your own prosperity?

MAKE OFFICERS LIVE PROMISES

Former Congressman Is Speaker At County Meetings

"It is my suggestion," he said, "that we definitely enforce prohibition or definitely repeal it."

Discussing economic conditions, the former congressman advocated the release of gold reserves, steadily pouring into three spots in the world now—United States, France and India—as a means of permitting nations of the world to reestablish a credit basis and thereby begin the restoration of world trade and commerce.

He hit the Sherman and Clayton laws as antiquated and entirely out of place in modern business. Illustrating his argument, he referred to a factory in Pittsburgh which, adopting a peculiar plan of operation, succeeded, in spite of depression times, in making money for plant, building up a surplus, paying dividends and employing a large number of workers. However, in so doing the company violated the Sherman code and, as a result, was held by the government for an accounting.

His Broker—Banker

However, Beggs held no brief for the stock market broker, or, at least, those of the banker variety.

"We must have a stock exchange," Beggs affirmed. "It is an essential of American industry. However, the sooner we eliminate the broker who also acts as banker, the sooner we will eliminate conditions which in 1929 sent U. S. Steel soaring to 265 and, in 1931, brought it back to 80."

In other words, Beggs declared, the broker who does the borrowing for his client is an evil to be eliminated. Make every stock buyer do his own borrowing, he suggested.

Beggs would substitute man power for machine power in public work until industry had taken the slack out of employment. He pointed to the fallacy of tariff cutting as a means of restoring normal conditions.

"A commodity made in Toledo," he explained, "has $5 labor in it. A similar commodity, made in Europe has 60 cent labor in it. Take the tariff off and which of the two would sell? Take the $5 labor away and who would be able to buy?"

Turning his attention to politics and government, Beggs urged that the American public hold every candidate to a rigid accounting, to see that promises and platforms are lived up to. The vote is the chief weapon.

"Office holders who promise one thing and do another," he declared, "are traitors and belong in the same category with Aaron Burr, Benedict Arnold and other traitors of history. A republic will last only so long as the masses believe in officeholders' honesty."

As he discussed platforms and promises, Beggs hit at "such men as" Borah, LaFollette, Brookhart and Nye, elected as Republicans and then trying to cut the feet from under the president.

Criticizes Primary

In connection with the selection of candidates, Beggs took occasion to criticize the present form of primary elections. Wealth, he said, will buy office, and the statement, he pointed out, is not essentially true that "every man is born with an equal chance of holding the highest honors that the nation can bestow."

"The present primary system," he said, "judged by its fruits, is a distinct failure."

At the close of Beggs' talk, brief talks were given by Republican candidates who will seek nominations at the primaries in August. Those who appeared at the gathering included Mayor J. M. Davidson and Harry Kesselmeire, both in the mayoralty race; Harold Babb, candidate for presidency of council; T. V. Yates, for council at large; Joseph Calladine, for fourth ward council; Auditor Helen Woerther and Karl Webster, the latter also seeking the auditorship; and Solicitor Cecil K. Scott and his two opponents in the primary race, Charles McCorkhill and L. B. Harris.

Survey Wins Recognition

Kerr obtained widespread recognition for his work with Canton schools through a survey of the city's public school system conducted each year. Close study was made of various phases of education during the survey with the result that great progress was made in the city's school system.

He plans to complete work at Canton, where he is now in charge of summer school sessions, next Wednesday, following which he will take a ten-day vacation from educational duties. Immediately at the completion of this vacation he will come to this city to conduct a survey of Salem's school situation and formulate plans for the 1931-32 school year.

CARE FOR YOUTH JURIST ADVISES

Health of More Importance than Anything Else, Says Judge

Health is of more importance to the individual than all other worldly things, according to Judge W. Riddle, judge of the Columbiana county probate court, in an address to the congregation of the First Methodist Protestant church, East Liverpool, recently.

"It is a good thing to have money and things which can be purchased with it but care should be taken that the one thing which money cannot buy—health, is not lost," the judge said.

The Davidge Inquiry

He spoke on the Davidge inquiry: "Is the young man, Abraham safe?" Judge Riddle stressed the need of parents inquiring whether their own "Johns" and "Marys" were safe in these days. He said that his surveys and experiences in the juvenile court led him to the deduction that children develop morally and educationally only in the degree that they are physically sound.

Growing children and even adults should have yearly medical examination," he declared. "Preferably this should be done on their birthdays so that the departure will not be forgotten. Life should not only be lived but it should be lived as a well person."

He noted several instances in which young boys and girls had been saved from criminal careers or escaped incarceration in mental institutions by simple physical examinations which have disclosed the need of special attention. The performing of subsequent minor operations at times have restored them to physical normalcy with increased powers of mental concentration.

Today's Youth O. K.

"The youth of today are not in my opinion really worse than those of a past day," he said. "It is true that most of our criminals are young men. But news consists of their ill and not their good behavior. That done by the vast majority is not sensational because it reveals them following their best instincts."

Youth of today may have greater temptations than some of those living in the past. To aid them in overcoming them they have the right to be born physically fit or to be placed in that condition later.

COURT NEWS

Pleads Not Guilty

Jess Watkins, residing in St. Clair township, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge Lodge Riddle in juvenile court to answer to a charge of non support. He was released on his own recognizance, and a hearing has been scheduled for Thursday morning.

Divorce Actions

Dan C. Williams has obtained a divorce from his wife Nellie Williams on the ground of extreme cruelty and upon payment of costs. The case was filed in common pleas court May 27 last, and was uncontested when called for trial before Judge W. F. Lones.

Extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty were grounds set up in the divorce petition filed by Margaret E. Barr against her husband, Norman S. Barr, and a decree was obtained by the plaintiff upon the payment of the costs. Barr has been ordered by the court, however, to pay his former wife $10 weekly for the support of minor children, the custody of which has been awarded the plaintiff, and in addition to pay her counsel $50.

Judgment For Defendants

No motion for a new trial was filed in the case of Mary E. Fraser, as executrix, against J. H. Irwin and others, and Judge W. F. Lones has entered a judgment on the verdict in favor of the defendants on the cause of action stated in the cross petition, and in favor of J. H. Irwin for $1,559.61. Judgment for the costs has been entered against the plaintiff.

In the action seeking a dissolution of partnership recently filed by H. D. Stratton against William and Elizabeth Andler, a motion to the petition has been overruled, with exceptions entered for the defendant. The motion for the appointment of a receiver has also been overruled, and exceptions entered for the plaintiff. The issue has to do with an orchard deal between the two parties.

AIRPLANES WAGE WAR ON INSECTS
Western Iowa Farmers Will Use Aerial Crafts To Spread Poison Mash On Corn

DES MOINES, IOWA, July 29.—Aerial warfare, with airplanes spreading poison mash over corn fields threatened by an army of grasshoppers, was in prospect for Western Iowa farmers today.

The horde which levelled fields in Nebraska and South Dakota has also done great damage to western Iowa crops and constitutes a growing menace to the entire state, entomologists asserted here.

State officials have adopted a tentative plan for combating the plague. The state will furnish poison bran to be spread on waste lands and highways, and the poison will be sold at wholesale prices to farmers in the infected areas.

State expenses in the fight will be paid from the $50,000 corn borer fund.

Amassing Riches

A MOTTO for a savings account was written by Goethe many years ago: "Riches amassed in haste will diminish, but those collected by little and little will multiply."

Had Goethe enjoyed bank interest on his savings at that time, he would have been even more certain of the forces of multiplication.

Tasty Pear Desserts

At their ripest, large pears can be made quickly into an amazingly large variety of desserts. For they blend well with many other flavors. Pears combine with almonds, pecans, walnuts and other nuts, with bananas, apricots and the other small fruits and with many of the liquid flavors—vanilla, chocolate, fruit syrups and a cooking sherry and rum.

Pear Sherbert

3 large pears
2 cups orange juice
1 cup lemon juice

Freeze the juice partly, then open freezer, add the diced pears and pack in ice for another hour or two.

Pear Supreme

Halved and peeled ripe pears
Chocolate syrup
Roasted almonds
Sponge cake.

Place small square of sponge cake on individual serving plates. Atop each piece of cake put the halved pear, fill center with a spoonful of chocolate syrup, and stick in a few almonds. Place on ice until ready to serve.

If there's no limit to the richness of the dessert that the family will stand, this dish can be further elaborated by pouring a spoonful or two of cooking rum or sherry over pear and cake.

Pear Pie

Cut well-ripened peeled pears into small sections and place in a pastry-lined pie tin. Cook together 1/2 cup sugar, mixed with 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 cup of water. When thick, remove from fire, add 1 tablespoon of butter and stir well. Let cool, then pour over the pears and bake in a hot oven for half an hour. Serve cold with whipped, slightly sweetened cream.

Today's Pattern

The bolero keeps its favored place in fashion because it is so kind to everyone's figure. If you are very slim, a bolero gives your figure youthful grace, if you have curves, a bolero disguises the waistline and makes the hips look more slender. Still another reason for liking boleros is accounted for in this model that has the usefulness of two frocks. Worn alone, it is a practical frock for any daytime occasion, and the addition of a bolero transforms it into a frock for outdoors or more formal wear. Silk or cotton may be effectively used in making this smart rig.

Pattern 2177 is obtainable only in sizes 13, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. 1 yard of contrasting. Yardage for every size and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

COUPON

This pattern will be delivered upon receipt of 15c. coin or stamps, carefully wrapped. Latest Fashion Book 10c. Send all orders to SALEM NEWS PATTERN DEPARTMENT, 343 WEST 17TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

WINDS TO OUST OHIO HEAT WAVE

General Relief Foreseen As Nation Swelters; 75 Deaths Result

(By Associated Press)

Beginning its day by sweltering under a summer wave which has held some localities in its deadly grip for almost a week, the nation looked forward early today for promises of general relief to materialize.

Cool Winds Foreseen
In most sections storm- and cooler winds were predicted for today or tomorrow.

As in few summers, the upper half of the North American continent was suffering more than its share of summer troubles. In the state of Washington disastrous forest fires are raging. Grasshoppers are bringing terrible destruction to the middle northwest, their hordes moving up into Manitoba and Alberta.

As though grasshoppers were not enough the wheat rust was severely infecting Manitoba crops. Around Aberdeen, S. D., where no rain has fallen for some time, the corn is practically dried up and the crop is almost a total loss.

Hail Storms Hit Canada
Saskatchewan and Alberta had hailstorms yesterday which did considerable damage. Wind storms also uprooted trees and did property damage in the St. Paul-Minneapolis district.

Abnormal temperatures and freakish weather conditions have also wreaked havoc with human life. More than 75 have died because of the heat. Most of these fatalities were in the Imperial valley where mercury has soared as high as 120.

Summarized reports from throughout the nation are:
EAST: Scattered relief in sight. Thunderstorms with temperatures ranging from 94 in New York to 97 in Baltimore.

NORTHEAST: Heat wave continues with predictions for probable thunderstorms by tonight. Thousands sleeping on Boston beaches.

Temperatures of 97.2 in Boston equalled record for July 28; of 95 in New Haven set record. All New England in high nineties.

SOUTH: Weather generally seasonable. No excessive temperatures and frequent thundershowers.

SOUTHWEST: No relief in sight. Temperatures running over 100.

Relief Promised
CENTRAL STATES: General re-

Kiwanis Club, Hardware Lose Hard-Fought City League Tilts

PROTEST LODGED IN VICTORY WON BY CIGARS TEAM

30 Champions File Claim Against Decision Made By Umpire Stitt

OHIO EDISON TAKES THRILLING 6-4 TILT

Clubmen Rally In Final Frame But Are Unable To Overcome Lead

Kiwanis club and Salem Hardware softballers dropped a pair of hard-fought verdicts in city league competition at Centennial park field Tuesday, the former losing to the Ohio Edison Power and Light company, 6-4, while the United Cigars were triumphant over the 1930 champions, 3-2.

Hardware Lodge Protest

A protest against a decision made by Umpire Charles Stitt was lodged by Hardware players immediately following the latter clash, final result of the game being upheld pending a ruling by the board of arbitration. The game was a thriller all the way, the Tobies winning out in the last half of the seventh.

The Ohio Edison played good ball and played well throughout an abbreviated five-inning struggle to trim the Kiwanians. The latter staged a spirited three-run rally in the fifth but were unable to overcome a five-run handicap set up by the winners who scored three in the first and fourth frames.

Stage Slab Duel

George Early and Miller staged a high class hurling duel in the opener, the latter being awarded the victory when his team tallied once in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings. The Hardware was able to bunch its hits in only one frame, the fourth.

SALEM LADS TIE IN POLE VAULT

Roessler, Beck Share 3rd Honors In Canton Meet; Roebusch Injured

(By Brush-Moore Teased Wire)
CANTON, O., July 29—Ed Beck and Keith Roessler, both of Salem, finished in a deadlock for third in the pole vault at the Kiwanis Athletic carnival here last night. Both cleared the bar at 11 feet, 9 inches.

Dave Appleby of Akron East and Black of Ravenna shared high honors. Their height was an even 12 feet. Hummel of Canton McKinley was fifth. Injuries sustained in practice prevented Bill Robusch, Salem from competing.

Appleby pulled down first in the 120-yard hurdles, negotiating the distance in 16.1 seconds. Dick McCuskey of McKinley was second, Earl Miller of McKinley third and Roessler fourth.

Twenty four teams still remain in the tug-of-war event. Drawings will be made today for competition tonight and Thursday night. Finals are scheduled for Friday night, at which time a polo match between Canton and Massillon also is on tap. The Salem American Legion team, scheduled to meet the Canton Tin Plates last night, failed to put in an appearance and was disqualified.

Lone Star Athlete Sets Pace

Setting a pace which was impossible to beat at the Women's National A. A. U. track and field championships held at Pershing Field, Jersey City, N. J., Babe Didrikson is shown stretching her nimble legs to clear the hurdles in the 80 metres high event in the form with which she won the race. This fast-moving young woman hails from Texas.

SOME STARS FROM A. A. U. CONSTELLATION

The women, bless 'em, had their day at Pershing Field, New Jersey, when the A. A. U. held its Women's Track and Field Championships Meet. Many spiked-shot beauties from the Middle West and South showed that they are not content to let their men uphold the traditional athletic prowess of the great outdoors.

Above are four of the dashing participants of the meet who gave a good account of themselves. Mary Carter came all the way from Dallas, Texas, to do her stuff, and, boy, how she did it! Anne O'Brien, of Los Angeles, is a former Olympic star sprinter; look at the action in the picture. Evelyn Hall, of Chicago, shows how she clears obstacles; hurdles are her meat, and Nellie Todd, also of Chicago, is a broad jumper that takes a lot to beat her.

Look out, men, for your records!

Borrelli Stars At Bat As Salem Team Again Wins; Score 7-2

Salem American Legion junior baseball stars defeated Lisbon for the second time within a week, inflicting a 7-2 setback on the county seat combine in a well played contest at Centennial park field Tuesday.

Salem was held to six hits by Sullivan, Lisbon hurler, but bunched four of them for four runs in the first. Roelen hurled for the winners and kept Lisbon's 10 hits well scattered.

Tony Borrelli, cleanup man for the Salemites, swatted two hits in three trips to the plate.

"BACHELOR APARTMENT"
At The State
"Bachelor Apartment" feature attraction starring Lowell Sherman, and Irene Dunne "Sabra" of "Cimarron" is at the State today.
This story by John Howard Lawson is designed solely for entertainment purposes. Its humor, romance and sparkling gaiety have been ingeniously interwoven into the background. For which chief credit is due Lowell Sherman, actor-director. Sherman's naturally sly and satirical sense of humor is seen in the treatment of picture. As the bored bachelor of wealth and leisure, who lives like an Arabian prince in his luxurious pent house, he outstrips any of his roles to date. Mae Murray appears in the production. Others are Claudia Dell, Kitty Kelly, Noel Francis, Norman Kerry and Arline Judge.

"ANNABELLE'S AFFAIRS"
At The Grand
"Annabelle's Affairs," based on Clare Kummer's hilarious New York stage success, "Good Gracious Annabelle" is at the Grand today.
Leading roles are enacted by Victor McLaglen and Jeanette MacDonald.
"Annabelle's Affairs" tells the story of a beautiful girl who, by a strange circumstance, becomes the wife of a rough, illiterate miner whose face is partly hidden by an unkempt beard. She escapes from his lonely cabin in the wet and makes her way to an eastern city.
Meanwhile her husband strikes it lucky and becomes immensely wealthy. Though he makes no attempt to see or communicate with her, he sends her a liberal allowance of money which she promptly squanders.
After a lapse of some months, her husband, sans beard, well dressed and considerably improved in other ways, appears on the scene, and his wife, not recognizing him, promptly falls in love with him.

SOFIA—Going to bed with a potato in the pocket of your nightgown is a sure way to prevent rheumatism and insure a ripe old age, according to Mme. She is a gifted musician, playing the accordion skilfully with her feet.

ABINGDON, Va. — A 31-ounce baby boy, born to Mrs. Emmett Buckles, Jr., in a hospital here, is being raised in an incubator. The infant, doctors said, has a fair chance of growing up to be a healthy boy, although it gained no weight during the first few days of its life.

Today's Pattern

Smartly Youthful Frock Pattern 2176

A round yoke is always engagingly youthful in effect, and this frock has a particularly attractive version. It tops the shoulders to suggest tiny cap sleeves, and in the front, it is lengthened into two tabs, a feature that gives the yoke chic as well as youthfulness and suits the frock to those who prefer smart sophistication in their fashions. Printed silk or cotton, linen, shantung, batiste or voile would all make up prettily into pattern 2176. The belt adds a modern note of color contrast.

Obtainable only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

U.S., Once Holder of Speed Records, to Seek Air Mark

Navy Is Secretly Building Speedy Plane in Which to Try and Regain Schneider Cup, Last Won by America in 1925.

WASHINGTON — Nineteen hundred and thirty-one witnesses the world traveling at the greatest speed ever attained on wheels, over the water and in the air. Never before has the giddy old universe reached such stupendous speeds as far as humans are concerned. All this being duly recorded, it is particularly unpleasant to recall that the United States, which likes to consider itself in the first ranks of progress, is trailing in the dust of accomplishments of other countries, notably Great Britain.
Where once upon a time the speed demons of the U. S. A. held the records for automobile, motorboat and airplane racing now every mark is proudly held by the sons of John Bull and there doesn't seem much of a chance of wresting them away from him except in one direction. And that's up—in the air.
When the shortcomings of America are paraded in the field of speed, the necessity of action on this side of the Atlantic becomes more acute. Squadron Leader O. H. Orlebar, of the British Royal Air Force, was the man who roared away with the Schneider Cup in the last races for the famous trophy in 1929. The last time America captured being obliged to relinquish her tured the cup was in 1925, there- advantage without even a struggle.
Sir Malcolm Campbell, another Britisher, holds the world's speed record at automobile racing with his powerful Bluebird II. Kaye Don, driving Miss England II at terrific speeds over the water, holds the motorboat racing speed for the country his craft is named after.
Fortunately for the prestige of the United States, Congress, under the sharp criticism of Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, of New York, who commanded an aviation squadron in the World War, has appropriated $220,000 for the Navy Department to turn out an airplane and a motor to drive, it is hoped, will sweep all opposition from the skies with its tremendous speed.
David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and keenly interested in aviation, is taking a leading part in urging development of an airplane and a motor which will bring victory riding home to America on the wings of her speedy entry in the Schneider Cup races of 1931. This year's competition is too close to permit participation by this country.
Engineers, whose identity is being closely guarded, are working feverishly on a new airplane motor which, it is confidently expected, will regain the racing laurels of the sky for this nation. Naval experts count on this new and mysterious motor to beat a plane Great Britain is entering in the 1931 cup races and which is reported to have a speed of 375 miles an hour. England won the last race with an average speed of 328.06 miles per hour, while Italy won in 1926 with a speed, then considered amazing, of something less than 300 miles an hour.
Every morsel of information, no matter how trivial, is being carefully kept secret concerning the mystery engine now under development for the navy's racer of the skies. While no contract has been let for the construction of the plane

Flexible Meal Hours?
Opinion is divided as to the superiority of a rigid schedule for meals or varying to the inclination of the moment.
"Why should I have a substantial dinner at 7 o'clock of a warm evening when I don't feel like it?" demands one of the diet fans. "Why have three meals on Sunday when we don't do any work and less exercise and haven't a special appetite?"
As far as children are concerned, regularity seems to be important because it establishes fixed habits for the body. Children who are allowed to eat whenever they feel like it, regardless of the hour, develop the habit of eating between meals. Result, a distaste for a complete, well-balanced hot meal at the proper hour.
In the case of adults, however, the habit of eating complete meals at established hours is not always the best idea. Three whole meals a day irrespective of the amount of exercise preceding them, or the special appetite for food, may really be the road of excess. Especially during the summer months is it the better part of habit to temper meals to inclination rather than absorb full-course meals at regular hours just because that is the custom.
Sunday, for example, is getting to be a two-meal day in many households, because late rising means later, bigger breakfasts. If no special exercise fills the intervening hours, then a light meal in the late afternoon is adequate. All of which is much easier on the cook as well as the digestion. After all, why shouldn't the stomach have a day of rest, too?
